

A wooden signpost stands in a forest of bare trees. The signpost is made of light-colored wood and has a horizontal crossbar. A diagonal wooden brace is attached to the top of the post. A dark brown sign with yellow text and logos is mounted on the post. The sign reads: BEAR SPRING MOUNTAIN WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT AREA STATE OF NEW YORK DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION. The Department of Environmental Conservation logo, featuring a stylized landscape with a blue sky, green hills, and a blue body of water, is visible on either side of the text.
